A note to the Senior Class...

I can remember sitting in middle school filling out forms and writing "2007" for our graduation year, but for some reason, I never thought it actually existed. Now here we are, at another point I never thought would come, graduating and leaving home. We are truly a unique class when it comes to how close we all are. Some might say it is because we're from a small town, while others might say it is because we don't know any other way, but I say it is because we are privileged. We are privileged to be graduating with such a small class where everyone knows each other. Personally, I can honestly say that I have been changed by each and every person in this class and not one of you will be forgotten. But now, as a member of the Harwich High School Class of 2007, it is your turn to go out into the world and make us proud, just don't forget about all of the memories from the Castle in the Clouds to the late nights on Bank Street. May a piece of Harwich High School go with each one of you forever. Congratulations and good luck!

Weve finally made it! I havent been with the class of 2007 long but I have certainly come to feel the closeness of the class and the extreme ambition possessed by all. Coming back to the States was hard and I want to thank all of you who made the adjustment easier you know who you are. We are all going our separate ways come the fall; some across the country, some a state or two away and others are staying here on Cape. When we go on our own ways, each with different hopes and dreams, be sure to remember the past 12 years and the fun we have had with our peers. No matter how hard things get in the future, think back to the great times we all had on the Cape. No one can take those memories away from us. I wish each and every member of the class of 07 the best of luck in whatever may lay ahead.

Thank you to everyone involved in my life, and my friends and family who have made it the way it has been. I don't feel as if I'm blowing this off, because this portrays how I feel, even though it was written 42 years ago. Now that I'm a senior, part of my life is over, and since having to write this has brought my past to mind, this song both exists there, and it also conveys how I feel right now. (Though if you don't know the song, I can't imagine you appreciate it as much as I do, or understand why I'm using it but I'm using it anyway.) There are places I'll remember. All my life, though some have changed. Some forever not for better. Some have gone, and some remain. All these places have their moments. With lovers and friends I still can recall. Some are dead and some are living. In my life, I've loved them all. But of all these friends and lovers. There is no one compares with you. And these memories lose their meaning. When I think of love as something new. Though I know I'll never lose affection. For people and things that went before. I know I'll often stop and think about them. In my life I love you more John Lennon. And since I am now off to the unknown. Peace.

We have come to a point in our lives where we have to say good bye...NOT good bye forever...but good bye to memories and experiences we have shared together. While we may or may not see each other again, I know that each and every person in the Senior Class of 07 has been a memorable part of my life in some way. Thank you to all who have helped me make it through my 4 years at HHS...school was tough for me but I did it and couldn't have done it without my Mom, Pop, Brooke, Ms. Richard, Mrs. Donovan, Mrs. Chilaka, Mr. Beer, Mr. Kot, Ms. Flint, and Raneo <3. I can't forget about my second family (theater). I remember in FAME when we were standing up there with our cap in gowns singing Bring on tomorrow, and how real and scary it felt to be standing up there like we were graduating...but now graduation is really here and it's time for us to move on into the world...we aren't in a play anymore...but...graduation is not the end...remember that...we will always have the memories, 13 years of memories. Whatever lies ahead in your future I wish you all the best!!!!

I want to thank my friends Alex, Matt, Eric, Chris, Justin, and John for making school a lot more fun. We were hilarious when put together which would explain why we weren't in so many classes over the years. The fun stuff is over now it is time to do something with our lives.

Jason Gingras (Tha Big Guy)

I would like to start off by saying thank you to my mom, dad, brother and sister. Without their support I wouldn't be half the man I am today and I thank them for it. Also, thank you to all my boys 4 pack. U know who u are. Thanks for always having my back and listening to all my problems. Haha. dude we need to talk. No matter which road we go down you know I got ya back and always will brothers. Class of 07 were do I begin? You guys are like a second family to me. Some of us have been together since day one, and I can honestly say each and every one of you has made my life that more enjoyable, and it has truly been an honor to ride through life with you. The biggest problem right now for me is trying to figure out how I can have as much fun as I can with you guys before that bitter sweet day comes when we say our good-byes knowing how the class of 07 roles I don't think it will be much of a problem. Keep it real, keep it fly. Just a little of a note for the other classes u have some big shoes to fill. Class of 07 THANK YOU

The passage of energy through matter organizes matter. What better way to see it than surf? Ride waves. Chaos, eternally bifurcating, always organizes into waves. The blood light of a setting sun is waves. So is the instinctive logic of fear, the cycle of the seasons, the patterns of societies and relationships. The wind is waves, these words and thoughts are waves, and a wave is a wave. That's how it is. I heard the ultimate question the other day. Why is there anything? The answer, at last, is because something is happening. Further and deeper, reason cannot go, though everyone pretends. But something from further and deeper comes through, and it always comes through in waves, breaking into existence. Waves are how reality happens. That's how it is. Peace ~ Love ~ Respect ~ Equality.

These years went by way too fast. Mike, Nic, Dan, and Cam thank you for the best four years of my life. Weve all had our differences but truth is I wouldnt have it any other way. School and sports would not have been the same without you guys. I hope we all never lose touch with college coming up. Times were great no matter how much trouble we got in or almost got in. Through out the many years that we have had together, I sometimes wonder if this has been the most important and happiest days of our lives. I realized how much I am going to miss this school and the people within it; the teachers that helped me and all my peers who have been so wonderful. Its been a joy these 12 years, experiencing the ups and downs together. Thank you Karen, Miss Richard, Mr. Bennett, Mrs. Buckley, Meghan, Alex, and Allie B, youve really helped me over the years. The shapeless, formless, heart is enormous bore this; I've worn this, no never what the norm is. Remember the purple haze of all the days that remain the same. I love having my hands in the dirt. It is never a science and always an art. There are no rules. And if it comes down to me versus that weed I'm trying to pull out of the ground that doesn't want to come out? I know I'll win.

What can I say high school has been the last four years of my life. Most people spend their time trying to please everyone else; I just spend it doing what I like: friends, mechanics, track, and my dirt bike. Id like to thank my Mom for motivating me to keep working hard. Also Bill Doherty, my boss at A.H.Y.C. since I was a freshman. Then theres one of the most important things in high school, your friends. All the stupid things weve done, thanx for sticking by me: M Scotts, J-Walk, Shu, Shennigan, and Johnnie M. O yeah thanx Leanne for making my senior year so amazing, I love you. I have to mention the 93 red Toyota pickup that has gotten me around. I wont forget you class of 07. I wouldnt trade my high school experience for anything, through all the good times and the regrets. The decisions Ive made have shaped me into who I am. Dont let em take my shoe lasses, You just gotta tap em, Knock knock Ja Mom Redline it, just stretch the gears, Ahhh Naaaah.

I couldn't have imagined a better class to graduate with. The class of 2007 was so close when it came to school spirit and competitions. We left our legacy with our dodgeball dynasty not to mention the championships won while we were here. My parents deserve a great thanks for helping me through and giving me the support I needed whether it was running an 11 pm trip to the store for poster board or just asking if i needed help on something. Thanks to all the great teachers I had who helped me out when I had trouble and the administration that were always so friendly. Just so many memories that will always remind me of this great class.

"Cate"

After 96 hours of labor you were finally here. Never loved another human being more than you at that moment. Then the years of late night trips to the emergency room, skinning your knees running the mile, dresses in the mail from grammy, winning the tire roll, a science project no one understood but you, learning about Monet, finally a new sister and then another, leaving the cattle smell of Goodhue, lonely days and tearful nights, finding love, belly laughs over what your brother and sister just said, growing up, pulling away, fighting, disagreeing, and coming out better people than we were before. Best big sister ever, tough act to follow as the oldest child, our baby all grown up. We're your biggest fans. We love you! Congratulations Caity,

Did you ever notice a beautiful hawk soaring above when you played baseball?

To all the Harwich Baseball Team who have grown to be spectacular team players:

This is a dedication to your future and dreams...

Many Native American Indians have myths about how animals play an important role as messengers in our lives. They believe that hawks are symbolic beings that can teach us important life lessons, such as:

- ♦ Helping us to focus on our talents;
- ♦ Learning to see the big picture in order to understand life;
- ♦ Helping us to not get distracted from our path of life;
- ♦ Maintaining an inner balance of who we are.

May your direction and journey through life be filled with passion, excitement, and joy!

Take the message of the soaring hawk with you through your life.

Be a success in whatever you do!

Best Wishes from the DeGroff Family

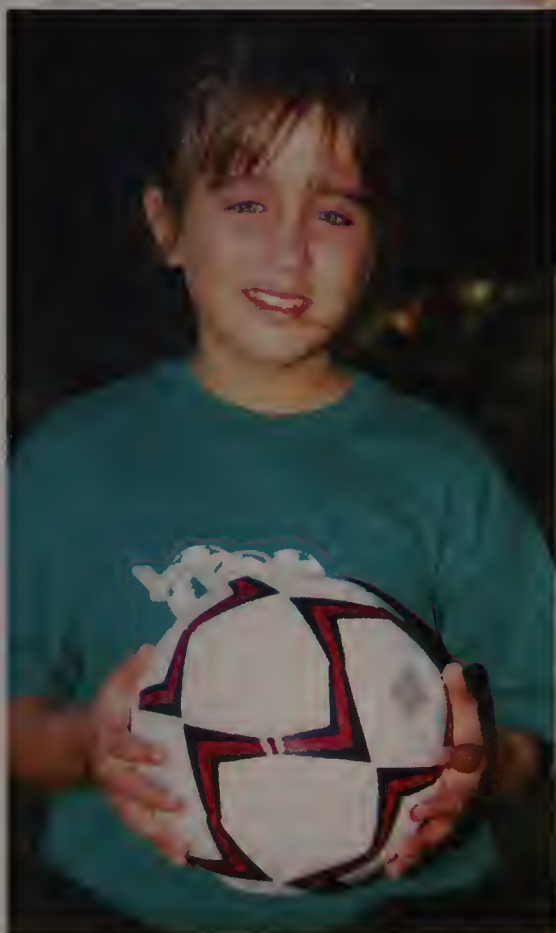

May the good Lord be with you
 Down every road you roam
 And may sunshine and happiness
 Surround you when you're far from home
 And may you grow to be proud
 Dignified and true
 And do unto others
 As you'd have done to you
 Be courageous and be brave
 And in my heart you'll always stay
 Forever young, forever young.

On a bright and sunny morning on the Island of Hawaii,
There was born a little baby and we thanked the Lord.
She was precious and so fair, rosebud lips and golden hair
She stole our heart when we saw her there,
and we thanked the Lord.

A precious grand daughter you continue to be
Full of laughter and of fun
You put rainbows in all our days
May God bless you dearest one.
We love you, Papa & Tutu
